F-16 FIGHTING FALCON

DWYER AND SMITH FLY THE F-16 AT SINGAPORE

General Dynamics Test Pilots Kevin Dwyer and Bland Smith will be flying the F-16 Fighting Falcon during the Asian Aerospace '88 Air Show. Dwyer made his first appearance in an international air event in 1985, and Smith began performing at international air shows in 1987.

A graduate of the U.S. Naval Academy and the U.S. Naval Test Pilot School, Dwyer joined General Dynamics in 1980 and now serves as Chief Experimental Test Pilot. He is involved in the F-16 Night Attack Project and in future F-16 developments. Dwyer has accumulated more than 3000 flight hours in various aircraft, including the F-8, F-14, A-7, and the F-16.

Smith, a graduate of Texas A&M and the Air Force Test Pilot School, joined General Dynamics in 1985 as project pilot on the AFTI/F-16. He now serves as project pilot for the Air Defense Fighter and the National Aerospace Plane. As an Air Force test pilot, he flew both the F-4 and F-16 and served as project pilot for AMRAAM and Low Level Laser Guided Bomb tests. He has accumulated more than 2800 flight hours.
